

My name is Jenn Strife and I am in the second semester of my junior year here at Utica College. This is my third semester working for the Writing Center. I am an English major with a concentration in adolescence education and a minor in creative writing. I am the president of the Harold Frederic English Society and editor-in-chief of The Ampersand. Last semester I was inducted into the English honor society, Sigma Tau Delta, and the education honor society, Kappa Delta Pi. The future teacher in me looks forward to helping all of you!
