

The Writing We Do Workshops

sponsored by the Utica College Writing Center
Fall 2012

Join us for A SERIOUS CONVERSATION ABOUT WRITING

For FACULTY: TUESDAYS from 2 to 4 in BOEHLERT CONFERENCE ROOM

October 2	Reflective Statements	What are they? What are they for? What are the elements of a successful reflective statement? Bring your own draft reflective statements for a discussion and workshop.
October 9	Writing Assignments	Bring one of your own writing assignments and take the opportunity to workshop it with colleagues.
October 16	The Writing Center	How does the Writing Center work, exactly? Meet the tutors, see a sample session, and participate in discussion.
October 23	The Writing Program	What happens in English 100, English 101, and English 102? Join the Utica College Writing faculty for a discussion of the first year writing program.
October 30	Plagiarism	In this session we will examine the most productive responses to student plagiarism.
November 6	Responding to Student Writing	What are our most successful strategies for responding to student writing? Join us to discuss the efficacy of exhaustive editing, conferencing, and other response strategies.
November 13	Syllabi	Bring your syllabi to this discussion. What can or should be included in a syllabus? Who reads syllabi, and for what purpose?

The Writing We Do Workshops

Questions?

Contact Mary Ann Janda/English and The Writing Center/Learning Commons/
Gannett Library/wcenter@utica.edu

sponsored by the Utica College Writing Center
Fall 2012

Join us for A SERIOUS CONVERSATION ABOUT WRITING

For STUDENTS: THURSDAYS from 2:30 to 4:30: Boehlert Conference Center

October 4	Syllabi	How to Read a Syllabus: You've probably read many of them, but, in this session, we'll discuss what to expect from a syllabus and how to use it most productively in your work as a student.
October 11	Plagiarism	How to Commit It, How to Avoid it Join us for an "anatomy of plagiarism" lesson
October 18	Exams	Why do professors assign essay exams? What's the difference between an in-class and a take home, and what are the best approaches for successful exam writing?
October 25	The Writing Center	How the Writing Center works, and how it can work for you: The Writing Center is provided by the college to support all writers in process. Come and learn more about what the Writing Center can do for you .
November 1	Punctuation	How punctuation plays a role in academic writing: Many people think punctuation is writing, which it is not, but it is pretty important. Bring your punctuation questions and puzzles.
November 8	Documentation	Academic writing requires us to document our sources. How can we do that confidently and accurately? Bring your research assignments and questions with you and we'll talk about accurate and complete documentation strategies.
November 15	Proofreading	Learn a variety of proofreading techniques employed by professional proofreaders.

Questions?

Contact Mary Ann Janda/English and The Writing Center/Learning Commons/
Gannett Library/wcenter@utica.edu