

Sylvia Plath Collection

At

Utica University Library

Introduction:

The Sylvia Plath collection ultimately derives from the life and work of Sylvia Plath. Sylvia Plath (1932-1963) is a major American writer from the middle of the twentieth century despite her short life. Best known for her poetry collections The Colossus (1960) and Ariel (1965) as well as her novel The Bell Jar (1963), she has become known for writing literature inspired by her own life and was the first person to win a Pulitzer Prize posthumously in 1982 for Collected Poems (1981). Other books by Plath include the poetry collections Crossing the Water (1971) and Winter Trees (1971), the prose collection Johnny Panic and the Bible of Dreams (1979), The Unabridged Journals of Sylvia Plath (2000), and the short story Mary Ventura and the Ninth Kingdom (2019).

She was born in America on October 27, 1932, to Otto and Aurelia Plath. She received a degree from Smith College and, supported by a Fulbright Scholarship, Cambridge University. On June 16, 1953, she married British writer Ted Hughes. The couple had two children, Frieda (1960-) and Nicholas (1962-2009). They separated in 1962. On February 11, 1963, Plath died by suicide in London.

Provenance:

The Sylvia Plath Collection was gathered for research purposes by Peter K. Steinberg (1974-), and includes a variety of published versions of Plath's work, from individual poetry collections to selections of poetry and prose to Plath's writing for children. Additionally, it includes possibly every volume of biography and criticism written about Plath and her work at the time of its acquisition by Utica University in 2022. Other volumes include work by and/or about Plath's daughter Frieda Hughes, her husband Ted Hughes, and other writers connected to Plath. Additionally, an extensive collection of photocopied articles and reviews from journals and other publications are included, as are photocopies of newspaper articles from August 1953 about Plath's first suicide attempt gathered by Steinberg. Steinberg is a major figure in Plath research, having authored numerous articles and a biography Sylvia Plath (2004), co-authored These Ghostly Archives: The Unearthing of Sylvia Plath (2017), and co-edited the two volume Letters of Sylvia Plath (2017/2018) and The Collected Writings of Assia Wevill (2021). He maintains a Sylvia Plath website, a celebration, this is (sylvia.plath.info).

Utica University's Chair of English, Gary Leising, himself a researcher of Sylvia Plath and her writings, negotiated with Peter K. Steinberg in early 2022 to obtain Steinberg's collection of Sylvia Plath material. The negotiations included conversations with the Utica University Dean of the Library and Learning Commons James Teliha, who agreed to purchase the collection and house it at Utica University's Frank E. Gannett Memorial Library. In June 2022, Gary and James traveled to Pennsylvania to retrieve the collection. During the summer of 2022 the library's

Technical Services department processed the collection into the library's main holdings, where it is now available to interested faculty, staff, students, and researchers.

Collection Content and Organizational Structure:

The Sylvia Plath Collection is comprised of monographs, media, and archive material. The collection has two main divisions – cataloged content and archival content. Cataloged content comprises 374 items, archival content consists of 59 ½ linear inches of material. Both cataloged and archival content include media, the former commercial media and the latter reproduced media. Media includes analog material (audio cassettes, VHS) and digital material (CD and DVD).

Most of the cataloged material consists of monographs. Using a method to categorize material familiar to the history profession (i.e. primary vs. secondary sources), the collection's monographic material is divided into primary and secondary groups. Monographs in the primary group are writings by Sylvia Plath, Ted Hughes, Frieda Hughes, and Assia Wevill. Monographs in the secondary group are writings primarily about the preceding authors. Several monographs contain a signature by the author, in some instances with a brief hand-written note to Peter K. Steinberg, the individual responsible for creating the Sylvia Plath Collection.

Archive material is organized in three series. Each series contains different content. Series one, the largest series, is comprised of numerous articles, including journal, magazine, and newspaper articles. Series two contains booklets and pamphlets that could not be cataloged with the monographic material because they lack sufficient bibliographic information. Series three consists of media that is not commercial in nature. This media, unlike the cataloged media, appears to be privately recorded conversations and digital reproductions of other media formats, such as commercial sound recordings, possibly original television episodes, and commercial CDs and DVDs.

The main discovery and research tool for the collection's cataloged material is the library's catalog. Although the official name of the collection is the Sylvia Plath Collection, the decision was made to catalog the monographic material and commercial media with the more abbreviated designation: Plath Collection. A search for cataloged material using the library's catalog can be enhanced by using the following search code, b8: Plath Collection. The main discovery and research tool for the collection's archival material is the Sylvia Plath Collection Archive finding aid (see below).

Sylvia Plath Collection Archive Finding Aid:

Series 1: Articles

This series contains roughly 1,200 photocopies of journal, magazine, and newspaper articles gathered by the original creator of the collection, Peter K. Steinberg. The collection of articles covers a variety of topics and issues pertaining to Sylvia Plath. In terms of organization, the series retains the structure employed by Steinberg, who arranged the articles alphabetically according to the last name of the author. For the finding aid, author and title have been listed for each article.

Series 2: Booklets and Pamphlets

This series contains booklets and pamphlets that were originally included with the monographs but were subsequently separated from them and placed into this series because they lacked sufficient bibliographic information to incorporate them into the library's catalog using standard cataloging practices. A few booklets are catalogs of rare books and Sylvia Plath publications. The Cambridge University handbooks contain pictures of Ted Hughes, while other titles in this series are selections of Sylvia Plath's writings in foreign languages.

Box 1 Folder 1: Booklets and Pamphlets

- Varsity Handbook: The Undergraduate Guide to Cambridge. Ninth Edition, 1955-1956. Ted Hughes
- Varsity Handbook: The Undergraduate Guide to Cambridge. Tenth Edition, 1956-1957. Ted Hughes
- A Chronological Checklist of the Periodical Publications of Sylvia Plath, Eric Homberger
- Living in Print: The Legacy of Sylvia Plath, James R. and Mary M. Patton Collection
- James S. Jaffe Rare Books catalog
- Autumn 2017, Sylvia Plath
- Like Fury... The Life, Love, and Art of Sylvia Plath

- The World of Sylvia Plath, Yumi Shobo

- Maniacs, Christine Walde

Series 3: Archival Media

This series contains digital media reproductions. Unlike the cataloged media that is commercial content, the media in this series appears to be privately recorded conversations and digital reproductions of other media formats, such as commercial sound recordings, possibly original television episodes, and commercial CDs and DVDs.
